

Call for papers: Special issue ‘Plant factory and modern greenhouse’

Submission deadline: 31 September 2020

Target publication date: April 2021

Dear JSHS members,

Thank you for your continuous support to The Horticulture Journal (Hort. J.). With the support of the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS) KAKENHI, the Hort. J. will be publishing a special issue series. The journal is seeking original research articles as well as review articles for the special issue ‘Plant factory and modern greenhouse,’ which is planned to be published in April 2021. Dr. Eiji Goto (Chiba University) and Dr. Yasuomi Ibaraki (Yamaguchi University) are serving as guest editors for this special issue. You may submit your manuscript now and up until the deadline, which is 31 September 2020. The selected articles will be published free of charge. Please consider this special issue as a good opportunity to share your excellent work with researchers worldwide.

Areas of specific interest (not limited to):

- * Crop physiology under controlled environments
- * Regulation of physiological and molecular processes by environment control
- * Application of light-emitting diodes and other light sources
- * Monitoring of plant physiological status
- * Advanced cultivation technology

(Any other suggestions are welcome. Please communicate your intention to Hort. J. Editorial Office: hortj@jshs.jp)
